Each year, Northey Street City Farm:

- provides an open space for thousands of people to engage with our gardens, orchards, chooks, open spaces and, most importantly, our inclusive and welcoming community;
- provides working examples of sustainable gardens, orchards, and waste systems;
- has over 100 students undertaking permaculture or horticulture courses, with hundreds more participating in one-off workshops;
- provides a safe place for many people from marginalised groups – where they can be part of a supportive environment;
- provides a peaceful place to rest, shelter or meet, for thousands of individuals, hundreds of families and numerous groups;
- hosts thousands of school children; and
- mentors people establishing community gardens all over Australia.
